Dedication

Mr. Orville Schanz

The IMPish IMPlications inherent in this IMProbable edition IMPlore an equally IMPish dedication as well. Searching our IMPressive domain we are IMPosing on one IMPortant individual who in the past has IMPlicated others and now is about to find himself in that same IMPossible IMPasse.

By this IMPlicit dedication we mean to IMPly that his IMPelling IMPetus in past endeavors has IMParted to this activity the IMPressive IMPact for which it has been noted.

IMProvement has always been his byword and so for this IMPassioned reason we IMPulsively dedicate this book to the IMPeccable, IMPerturbable, and IMPartial Mr. Orville Schanz.

Special Events

'62 Spring Production

The three witches of MacBeth's vision, portrayed by Mary L. Thomas, Jeanette Johnson, and Joellen Minton, prophesy MacBeth's rise to fame in the McK production directed by Mary E. Williams.

Banquo played by Theo McCorkle gazes into the space from which the witches have just disappeared while MacBeth, Roger Knox, ponders strange prophesies.

Banquo is murdered by Boyd Carter playing one of MacBeth's hirelings.

"Mac Beth" and " . . . Shrew"

MacDuff and MacBeth begin the duel which ends in the death of MacBeth. (Bill Whittaker was cast as MacDuff).

Baptista, Theo McCorkle, tells Katharina, Anne Webb, that she has been betrothed to Petruchio in a scene from "Taming of the Shrew."

Petruchio with the aid of his servant, Grumio, tells the world of his intention to marry Kate. Petruchio was played by Larry Cook and Grumio by Bill Whittaker.

Spring Concert - 1962

Students rehearse a scene form "Boris Godonov" for '62 spring concert. Top to Bottom: Charles Rann, Paul Devor, Jim Neil, Roger Knox, Terry Burk, and Jim Williamson.

Peggy Lentz sings a solo in "The King and I."

Charles Rann, as Boris, is backed by the McKendree Choir in appropriate costume.

Torreador, Charles Rann, tells the crowd in the inn of his daring exploits.

Floyd Williams sings a solo from "The Magic Flute."

Beverly Firguson as Carmen receives admiring glances from the casino crowd.

Charles Rann as the torreador in Carmen accepts the cheers of his admirers, acted by the members of the McKendree Choir.

Floyd Williams, the king of "The King and I", surveys his court.

Writers Conference

Gerry Wille, dressed as a clown, acts as a side show barker for the Stagecrafters exhibit, while Mrs. Williams tries a quieter type of persuasion to get Dean Grandy's nickel.

Mrs. Virgil Church, "Mom" Thornley, and Mrs. Max Allen serve concessions at the Dames Club Booth.

GRADUATION 1962

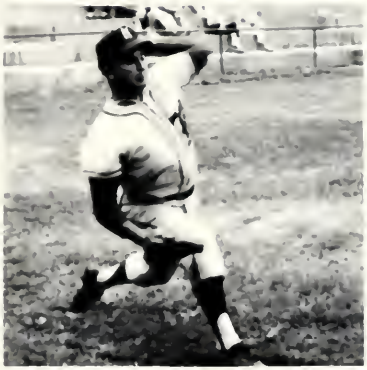
Just don't stand there.

Orval steps into it.



I'm a lefty.

Our bench strength.

It's only a little farther.

The contest!

Guess who won?

Second childhood.

Which is which?

Twinkle toes!

I'll think of it.

I've got to find a quiet place to ~~sleep~~ study

And guinea makes three.

Two + two = 5

Shall we let the cat out of the bag?

Well, somebody did!

"Calling Moscow!"

One, two, three, kick.

Dignity plus!

Cold cuts again!

Yeah, team.

The long, gay line.

Touch Football?

We are trying.
